INTRODUCTION

Dear Madam or Sir,

The 6th European Veterinary Immunology Workshop (EVIW2018) will take place on September 5-7, 2018 in Utrecht, The Netherlands. EVIW 2018 is a satellite of the European Immunology Congress (ECI2018) that is organized on September 2-5, in Amsterdam.

EVIW 2018 will bring together scientists and students, from Europe and beyond, that conduct fundamental as well as applied research in a multitude of animal species relevant to society such as production animals, companion animals and wildlife species. Some of the diseases carried by these species may have zoonotic impact on human health, whereas these and others like chronic inflammatory diseases may be animal models for their human homologues, which is especially relevant in the context of One Health-One Medicine.

Amongst the participants are the present and future research leaders in Veterinary Immunology Research. A broad field of subjects is covered, amongst others Innate and Adaptive Immunity, Mucosal Immunity, Infectious Disease and Immunity including Diagnosis and Vaccine development, Clinical Immunology, Allergy and Microbiome-Immune system interaction.

Obviously, EVIW2018 is a great opportunity to highlight New and Advanced Research Technologies applicable in both fundamental and applied Veterinary Immunology Research. Besides it is an event to meet potential users and sponsors of research outcomes and vice versa, an option to create productive collaborations

Given your continued interest and professional expertise in this exciting field, we would kindly ask you to consider sponsorship for this unique late summer gathering held in Utrecht, a city that in attractiveness can easily compete with, nearby, Amsterdam.

The options for sponsorship are listed below.
Your support is greatly appreciated - looking forward to hosting you in Utrecht!
